JOIN US FOR A JOURNEY OF SUSTAINABILITY IN ROSEBROOK AND PORT FAIRY

Jodie Honan

This month we will visit Nature's Way Eco Sanctuary, home of Tina and Arthur Stubbs, where we'll enjoy a tour of their Rosebrook property which includes a fully sustainable straw bale home, chicken caravan, alpacas, goats, bees and a superb ever-giving garden.

"The purpose of NWES is to demonstrate a more sustainable way of living by minimising the consumption of yesterday's sunshine and yet still enjoy a comfortable lifestyle"

Following this inspiring look at sustainable living we will venture to Port Fairy's Restaurant L'Edera where we will hear from our special guest presenter local educator and conservationist Jodie Honan. Jodie is a teacher of Conservation in the Division of Food, Fibre and Land at South West Institute of TAFE. Her interests are the environment, community, arts, education and communication. The topic of her presentation is "Between Warrnambool and Port Fairy, a Natural History".

To complete this fantastic evening we'll enjoy delicious traditional Italian peasant food made using fresh local ingredients and cooked in true Italian style by Restaurant L'Edera Chef Giovanni De Cicco.

This month we are visiting the Fletcher Jones complex - known as 'Factory Arts', an artist-run collaborative space at the eastern end of the old factory. We will meet talented local women operating their small businesses including artists, fashion designers, clothing makers, potters, jewellers, a micro-café owner and others, all breathing new life into one of Warrnambool's most iconic buildings.

We'll enjoy a delicious canape style meal and drinks provided by Tasty Plate Catering in one of the large studio spaces. The highlight of the evening will be the opportunity to hear the fascinating business stories from the Factory Arts Collective ladies who will then invite us into their studios and work spaces situated in this interesting corner of the factory with its industrial fittings and vintage-style.

As always, our nights offer great networking with local business women and we look forward to seeing you there!
