

BPW Swan Hill Stepping Up to Leadership Program

Boost your skills and take a fearless step forward with a new initiative for women in the Murray region.

There are 20 places available in the BPW Swan Hill Stepping Up to Leadership Program, funded by the Foundation for Regional and Rural Renewal (FRRR) and delivered locally by BPW Swan Hill.

The Program is an ongoing opportunity for women in the region to improve themselves not just in business, but for those interested in our community to Step Up Into Leadership.

The confidence to take a leading role isn't easy for all of us. This program will give you the skills and support to do it.

Community leaders will share their knowledge throughout the six session program, which will also develop skills in media, public relations and marketing, community engagement, and advocacy.

The program will build participants' self understanding and confidence, and facilitate goal setting and achievement.

Women between 20 and 60 years old, living in the Swan Hill, Wakool or Gannawarra region can apply.

Applications are now open and close on April 15, 2016

The six session program will run from May 11 to October, with a graduation in November. The program also includes individual coaching sessions with our facilitator, Rosanne Kava.

This is a heavily subsidised program made possible by a grant from FRRR. As a result, successful applicants will be required to pay only $200 to participant in this wonderful opportunity.

BPW Swan Hill is part of a global organisation with close ties to the United Nations and a leading role in women's issues around the world.
